

DPR's Pest Management Advisory Committee held its first field trip on August 11, 2005, when members traveled to Southern California. The tour, which began at the University of California Riverside Extensive Service, included field discussions of new technology in ground spray application, as well as fumigant research. DPR Director Mary-Ann Warmerdam emphasized the importance of developing and promoting a statewide integrated pest management (IPM) program.

